Synopsis

This is a religious book, revered by a very particular community in India. I wish the cover design to be the one comprehensive image that would also be the last but one image of the text.

The designer is free to make the image better and crisper without modifying the basic image in the illustrations.

Once in the impeccable Vaikunta, the Lord with his consorts, Sreedevi, Bhodevi and Neeladevi, was having a discussion about the Bhoolokavasis and how they could be made to understand the ways to reach Him. Then, Bhudevi spoke "As you rescued me in your earlier avatara as Varaha, I asked you about the ways to reach the goal of surrendering to you and you related three ways, namely

- ☒ Offering lot of flowers at your feet.
- ☒ Chanting your names aloud as a group
- ☒ Surrendering at Your feet completely -Sharanagathi

Hence, now let me take the responsibility and make the innocent people of the earth know these simple ways to reach you."

And the Lord continued saying, "Those who do all the above three are dear to me. But those who just sing my praise aloud are the dearest."

Bhudevi took the cue and thus decided to grow under the care of Periyazhwar, who did pushpa kainkaryam to the Lord, chanted his name all the time and believed in Sharanagathi. She was hailed as Godha fondly earned the sobriquets "Choodikkoduththa Nachiyar and Andal.

This book illustrates the path she took and introduced to all to devotedly attain sharanagathi.
